Promoting Literacy and Love of Reading

The Tribe’s After School Program participants are reading culturally-appropriate books from the Northwest Native American Curriculum Project sponsored by Evergreen State College. The children in the group are Ben Reeves (Collier), Kiana Redner, Keilana Hewitt (Hunter), Johanna Chavez, Sofia Chavez, Breaonna LaTour, Eva Osmer (Twiggs), Sam Johnson, Jesse Osmer (Twiggs), Elijah Osmer (Twiggs), Amara Osmer (Twiggs), and Addison Carver (Johnson).

Natural Resources Director Honored

Natural Resources Director Scott Chitwood was awarded the Washington Association of Conservation Districts (WACD) Special Service award at the association’s annual meeting on November 29th.

He was nominated by the Clallam Conservation District.

Of Chitwood, Natural Resources Committee Chair and Tribal Council member Kurt Grinnell said “Scott has been invaluable to the Jamestown Tribe, navigating through the difficult social, political, and financial issues while striving to enhance and preserve our fishery resources that we all hold dearly.”

The Conservation District stressed Chitwood’s dedication to natural resource conservation on the North Olympic Peninsula, and his ability to encourage stakeholders with countless conflicting interests to find common ground to protect and restore our environment and fish and wildlife habitat.

His nomination form acknowledges Chitwood’s staff of 17 at the Tribe, but augments that fact with others, including details about several of the more difficult and potentially contentious situations that he has helped navigate during this years of service to resource conservation, as well as his dedication to Tribal treaty rights, and his leadership role in the Dungeness River Management Team. The nomination states: “Mr. Chitwood has always demonstrated an open and accepting style while chairing these meetings, welcoming everyone, regardless of their perspective on the issues and fostering understanding and cooperative actions, always searching for common ground.”

His collaborative style in working to realize water quality improvements in Dungeness Bay resulted in the upgrade of 772 acres since 2011; and in 2015, his proactive efforts to respond to the impending Dungeness Valley drought by bringing together agricultural and Tribal representatives, the Conservation District, Department of Ecology, Department of Fish and Wildlife, and riverfront property owners. Together, they were able to monitor flow rates, fish passage, irrigation and water use for optimal outcomes for all involved.

Chitwood insists that his accomplishments are all the result of the efforts of the entire Jamestown Natural Resources staff. He said, “We have a long standing tradition in our department. It goes something like this…it does not really matter who gets the credit. As long as habitat protection and restoration work is being accomplished, where the credit gets assigned is not that important. We have many partners and collaborators in our line of work. We work well together. We take turns providing the lead on a variety of different projects and initiatives. In the end we’re all part of an effective team and we should all share in the success.”

Tribal Chair/CEO W. Ron Allen praised Chitwood: “Scott is one of the most talented and visionary natural resource leaders in the Northwest. His talent for encouraging stakeholders with countless conflicting interests to find common ground to protect and restore our environment and fish and wildlife habitat is recognized and respected far and wide. Scott’s spirit in his career mission to be a good steward for our natural resources has served as an example for staff and an inspiration to colleagues.” Congratulations, Scott!
Call for Volunteers from Lisa Barrell:
Night Subsistence Clam Dig

I will take any willing Tribal Citizens out for a night subsistence Manila clam dig Monday January 23rd, 4:30 p.m. at Blyn.
I’m requesting that diggers donate 2-5 lbs of their harvest to go towards an Elder distribution to take place on Wednesday, January 25th.

Diggers: Meet at the Blyn Tribal office at 4:30. It will be freezing! Dress warmly, wear boots, gloves, and hat. If you do not know how to clam, I will teach you!

What you need to bring:
• Your subsistence card
  Contact Anika at 360-681-1109 a week prior to the event if you need a subsistence card.
• A bucket
• A digging instrument (clam rake, shovel, pitch fork, and garden hand tools all work to dig), and
• A headlamp or lantern if you have one.
  Don’t have any of that? Give me a call and I will try and set you up.

Elders Who Would Like Clams: If you are an Elder and will be able to pick up a pound of clams at the Tribal office on Wednesday or Thursday (Jan. 25th or 26th), give me a call to be added to the distribution list. If you are an Elder in the service area and are truly craving clams but are unable to make it to the Tribe, give me a call and I will try to find a volunteer to distribute them. No guarantees. Supply will be limited.
Please contact me, Lisa Barrell, at 360-681-3418 or 360-460-5563 if you would like to dig or receive clams.

Veteran’s SITREP (Situation Report)

• Thank you to all veterans who came to the Veterans Luncheon on November 11th at Club 7 at 7 Cedars Casino. We had 35 men and women there! Thank you to Jerry Allen and the Tribe for the gift cards and the meals provided.
• Thank you to the veterans who helped with the flag raising at Jamestown Beach.
• Thank you to all of the men and women that came to the movie
  “Healing the Warrior’s Heart,” presented by the Tribal Library on November 9th at the Tribal Center.
• Looking to the future, we will need 8 veterans to post our colors when the Tribe’s new Veteran’s Memorial is done. Please call me to sign up. This is a real honor so don’t be left out!

Albert Fletcher (Patsey), Tribal Veteran’s Representative
360-434-4056
Greetings Tribal Citizens! First of all, it is 2017 and I trust everyone had a great holiday season and Happy New Year!

In early December I attended a two-day session at the United Nations (UN) in New York City to assist in securing the appropriate standing to attend and participate in the UN events that affect our interests.

Having celebrated the Declaration of the Rights of Indigenous Peoples passed by the UN in 2007 that recognized the standing and interests of Indigenous Peoples as “Peoples,” Indigenous leaders are now working on getting the UN to agree to the accreditation and access rights to allow us to effectively participate in all the forums of the UN to address the interests of Indigenous Peoples. Since we estimate that there are somewhere between 5,000-17,000 distinct Indigenous entities, this is no small task.

What was evident to me at that time, engaging with Indigenous leaders from throughout the world, was how well our American Indian and Alaska Native Nations are doing compared to our brothers and sisters in other countries.

I have written in the past of our many successes here in the Jamestown community and throughout Indian Country, and how these successes reveal how much more is needed to effectively serve our citizens in so many areas of life. Then I talked and listened to the situations of other Indigenous Peoples from around the world, and I can only express my appreciation for how well our North American Tribes have done in developing and advancing our “Nation-building” agenda.

If we reflect on how far we have come over the past 40 years since the passage of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Act of 1975, and compare the standing of Indigenous Peoples throughout the world, we broaden our world view and the significance of our achievements.

I talked to a man from Russia who was jailed just a few weeks before coming to the UN for this purpose because of his activities and efforts to insist on the recognition of Indigenous Peoples in Russia. We have many challenges in Russia, China, India and a few others who want to control who shall be recognized as Indigenous, and even greater challenges in being recognized as political entities such as governments, cultural institutions, traditional council or other representative authorities. These distinctions make engaging in the UN forum very complicated.

I talked with representatives from Peru, Chile, Fiji Islands, and Mexico. Their interests are driven by enhancing their opportunities for marketing their agriculture or cultural products - a more specific objective than building a governmental and economic capacity, which we have been advancing for 40 years.

These observations have caused me to step back and reflect how successful we are at Indigenous Nation Building to advance our Self-Governing and Self-Reliance goals. Forums such as the meeting at the UN provide opportunities to share with these leaders our approach to accomplishing a better foundation to serve our communities and future generations.

These same leaders asked how we expect to continue our Nation-building agenda with the incoming Trump Administration and Republican-led Congress. We were sharing how over the years, we have become stronger and more skilled at working our political system, and that regardless of any new political challenges, we expect to fare well.

But in engaging in this mutual international challenge, it was most enlightening to remember that we have reason to be appreciative of how strong our Tribal governments are, and how many services and programs we are able to provide to our citizens. We are sought out by leaders from Canada, New Zealand, Mexico, Australia, the Swedish provinces, and around the world for insights on “best practices.”

I am proud to have been able to contribute to these achievements with the leader-warriors of the past generations, and to be able to continue our individual (Jamestown) and collective (567 Tribes in the US) journey to become truly Self-Reliant, Self-Governing Nations. I am also proud that we are willing to share with brother and sister nations and communities across the world.

I said last month we will firmly “stand our ground” and continue our progressive movement forward with the new national leadership and share successes and best practices with respect to governance, program management and business development.

Please do not hesitate to call any of the Council members or me at (360) 681-4621 or e-mail me at rallen@jamestowntribe.org if you have any questions or need clarifications.

God bless,

W. Ron Allen
Canoe Honor Luncheon

Each year the Tribe honors those members of the Jamestown community who participated in the Intertribal Canoe Journey. This year, a luncheon was held on Dec. 17th in Red Cedar Hall, with about 40 people in attendance, including Tribal Council members W. Ron Allen, Lisa Barrell Theresa R. Lehman and Kurt Grinnell.

Chairman Allen talked about the importance of the Intertribal Canoe Journeys for the revitalization of the Coast Salish Canoe Culture, and also revealed that the Tribal Chairs from the two Tribes - the We Wai Kai and the Wei Wai Kum Tribes, who are hosting next year’s Journey to Cape Mudge and Campbell River—had already visited with Tribal Chairs from Washington State, seeking financial support for the very expensive hosting they will do next August. The Jamestown S’Klallam Tribal Council agreed to send $10,000 toward that effort, in addition to the budget already approved for the Jamestown Canoe Family to participate in the Journey from Jamestown, west to Lower Elwha, north across the Strait of Juan de Fuca, and around Vancouver Island and through the Gulf Islands.

Culture Coordinator Vickie Carroll presented gifts to those who participated in the 2016 Paddle to Nisqually, and offered information about the 2017 Journey. If you are interested in learning about that upcoming adventure, contact Carroll at vcarroll@jamestowntribe.org, or call her at 360-681-4659 or 1-800-262-6603, X 4659.

Winter Family Cultural Dinner

The children’s, youth and teen after school and summer programs invite you to our Winter Family Cultural Dinner on Thursday, January 12th at 5:30 pm. in Red Cedar Hall.

All families of our current students are invited as well as any other Jamestown S’Klallam community member who is interested in the programs available to your young family members.

Meet the staff from the Tribal programs that serve children, youth and teens including Jessica Humphries (Children’s Program Coordinator), Carmen Maxwell (Teen Program Coordinator), Molly Troxler (Youth Child Worker) and Dustin Brenske (Behavioral Health Specialist and Clinical Supervisor for Social and Community Services).

Share a yummy meal.

Staff will present information about the new registration process; the programs available for different age groups both during the school year and the summertime; available support and resources for families; upcoming parenting classes; and scheduling for conferences.

RSVP please by January 9th to Jessica at 582-1411 or Dustin at 681-4612
New Library Assistant Hired

Join us in welcoming Tribal citizen Gloria Smith to our staff as a Library Assistant. Gloria is from the Cook/Kardonsky family, the daughter of Vivian Croft, and mother of TGA Executive Director Rochelle Blankenship, Health Benefits Assistant Melissa Smith-Brady, and Randy Smith, a vehicle transport driver.

Reading and promoting a love of reading in her children have always been important to Gloria, so working in a library feels comfortable to her.

“I always told my kids that books are good, and they participated in the summer reading contests at the Port Angeles Library. Look where it got them!” she said, adding how proud she is of her children’s accomplishments.

In her new position, Gloria will help maintain the physical collections in the library including checking out and shelving books; assist patrons, staff and the Tribal community in exploring reading materials and doing research; and assist patrons in the use of the public access computers.

Gloria comes to the Tribe after 35 years as an unemployment claims adjudicator, first in San Jose, CA for 11 years.

“When I gave birth to Rochelle, my eldest, we moved to Port Angeles, because I didn’t want to raise her in San Jose,” Gloria explained, adding that she had grown up in Port Angeles and throughout California, as the family traveled with her military stepdad’s career. She graduated from Port Angeles High School.

Upon relocating to Washington, Gloria found work at the Washington State Employment Security Department. Through many changes in the department, and even after they closed the Port Angeles office and switched to a call center system in larger cities, Gloria remained employed. In July 2015, the State finally determined that a remote employee would no longer suit their needs, and she was laid off.

“I started putting out feelers, and after working for so many years on unemployment software, I realized that I needed some training. I came to the Tribal Library to take online classes, and met the special women who work here,” she said, referring to Librarian Bonnie Roos, and Library Assistants Jan Jacobson and Shantelle Kallappa. “I love working with people, so when this opportunity came up, I applied. I think it will give me even more of a sense of family than I already feel for my Tribe.”

Gloria Smith, Library Assistant

Gloria will be working one day per week at the Tribal Library. You can reach her at 360-681-3416 or gsmith@jamestowntribe.org

Food For Thought Lunchtime event
For nine days and eight nights in October, the Tribe’s Shellfish Biologist Ralph Riccio accompanied ten 9th graders along with several other chaperones as they visited Sequim’s sister city, Shiso, Japan. Please join us on January 17th 2017 at noon in Red Cedar Hall for a presentation of his adventure.

Jamestown Reads Book Club
Our book club will meet on Jan 10th at 5:30 pm at the Golden Star restaurant, 909 East Washington in Sequim. This is a very casual group and everyone is welcome. Copies are available at the Tribal Library for checkout.

Our book for January is Never Let Me Go by Kazuo Ishiguro: As children, Kathy, Ruth, and Tommy were students at Hailsham, an exclusive boarding school secluded in the English countryside. It was a place of mercurial cliques and mysterious rules where teachers were constantly reminding their charges of how special they were. Now, years later, Kathy is a young woman. Ruth and Tommy have reentered her life, and for the first time she is beginning to look back at their shared past and understand just what it is that makes them special—and how that gift will shape the rest of their time together. Dacite Projectile Point

This month we will take a look at a dacite projectile point uncovered during the excavations for the Sequim (Highway 101) Bypass Project. Dacite is a volcanic rock closely related to basalt, and its fine grains make it highly suitable for making sharp-edged tools. The importance of this material to the early peoples of the Olympic Peninsula is evidenced in its widespread distribution at sites across the Peninsula and around the Salish Sea, from sea level to the subalpine. In archaeology, these points are associated with what is now known as the “Olcott complex,” which is generally accepted to represent the time period between 8,000-4,000 years before the present (YBP). Studies have shown that the original source of this dacite was Watts Point, BC; it reached the Peninsula via the glaciers that covered the area during the last glacial maximum.

Conveniently, these rock nodules were deposited across the northern coast of the Peninsula and can still be found today in the cobbles of the Dungeness River, making the river a useful toolbox for early hunters. The Sequim Bypass Site represents one of the largest Olcott complex sites in Washington with thousands of points and the accompanyingdebitage (flakes broken off during the production of points). The shapes of the points and radiocarbon dating are evidence that the Sequim prairie was intermittently occupied by small groups during the late summer and early fall during this early period, followed by a more intensive occupation between 2,700 and 1,000 YBP. The final stage of occupation was between 700 to 170 YBP, and these were probably the camps of S’Klallam hunters harvesting deer and elk from the Sequim Prairie prior to winter, just as their ancestors had done in the same spot 8,000 years earlier!

Sign Up for R.A.D. Training

What is R.A.D.?

R.A.D. (Rape Aggression Defense) is a program of realistic self-defense tactics and techniques. It is a comprehensive 12-hour course for women that begins with awareness, prevention, risk reduction and avoidance, while progressing on to the basic physical defense techniques.

It will be taught over a two day period, a total of approximately 14-hours. The course culminates in a "realistic simulation" which gives the students the opportunity to test their abilities on a real person during a simulated attack.

Students who complete a R.A.D course are encouraged to take advantage of the free lifetime "return and practice" policy.

We will also be offering Aerosol Defense Options and the Keychain Defense Options. Both will be held at the conclusion of the Basic Defense class.

Learn the most realistic methods for accessing, deploying and assisting the aerosol defense (pepper spray) option; and if it fails to work (and it may), learn the proven backup strategies needed for successful escape.

The second program is Keychain Defense Options. The R.A.D. Keychain Defense Options course is one of the only realistic and court-defensible impact weapons programs available for the general public. This program revolves around use of the Kubaton in conjunction with weapon-enhanced physical skills.

The cost for the Basic RAD Course, Aerosol Defense Options, and Keychain Defense Options are as follows:

- $30 if you are just taking the Basic class.
- $50 if you are taking all three.

If paying by cash please ensure you have the exact amount as we will not have any change. If paying by check, please make your check out to “Jamestown S’Klallam Tribe.”

The next course will be offered at the Jamestown S’Klallam Tribe (1033 Old Blyn Hwy, Sequim, WA) Friday Jan. 6\(^{th}\) from 5:15 p.m.-8:15 p.m. and Saturday Jan. 7\(^{th}\) from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

Please wear comfortable clothing.
