Memorial Blessed; Veterans Honored

On Veterans Day, the Tribe blessed its new Veterans Memorial. Tribal Council Vice-Chair Liz Mueller opened by welcoming everyone. Veterans posted the colors. Marlin Holden gave a blessing, and Albert Fletcher invited veterans and their families to speak. “About 90% of the vets present spoke,” said Fletcher, “and so did many family members.” Close to 90 people attended.

“The group enjoyed socializing during lunch, said Lisa Barrell, Tribal Council Secretary, adding that Tribal citizens Susan Adams and Whe Whe Olitza made sure that everyone was well fed. “Then I called four witnesses - Lower Elwha Klallam veterans Will Sanchez, Phil Charles Jr., Dennis Sullivan and the Jamestown veteran traveling the farthest distance, Allan Lickiss. They were given lap blankets.”

Welcome Tribal citizen LaTrisha Suggs, to our Natural Resources Staff!

LaTrisha spent the past 15 years as the Assistant Director of the Elwha River Restoration Project for the Lower Elwha Klallam Tribe. She was responsible for contract development & negotiations, acquisitions, budget development and management; participated in agency negotiations, coordinated and participated in meetings with federal agencies and congressional delegation; and developed and implemented the Elwha Science Summer resident camp for Native Students. She also coordinated contractors and scientists involved in pre-dam mitigation analyses of wetlands, wastewater and hatchery, offering outreach to the community as conceptual designs and plans became available. She also coordinated and provided post-dam-removal tours as the river flowed free and many changes took place, including the development of 80 acres of new nearshore on the Elwha reservation. While working for Elwha she became the superintendent of the 1.8 mile set-back levee and learned more about operating and maintaining massive pumps that could move up to 69,500 gallons of water per minute. Working on the largest dam removal project in the world was an honor for her and it helped her to develop a strong understanding of Tribal Sovereignty, Self-Governance, and protection of Treaty Rights.

She earned her Bachelor’s degree in Environmental Policy and Planning in 2001 from the Huxley College of the Environment of Western Washington University’s satellite campus at Peninsula College. Her internship at that time was spent on the Dungeness River, where she worked on the fecal coliform problems polluting the bay by compiling all available information about on-site septic systems along the river. At that time, she recalls interactions with Randy Johnson, Habitat Program Manager, who is now her new supervisor at Jamestown. Her studies were the basis of much work done in the past 16 years by the Clallam County Health Department and the Jamestown S’Klallam Tribe to clean up the septic-related pollution to the river and the bay.

Last year, the Lower Elwha Tribe announced that it was closing the Elwha River Restoration department, and although Ollom-Suggs was able to continue working there, her work became far less focused on natural resources. In addition to that change, she has long hoped to work at Jamestown, her home Tribe. “I am excited to be part of the Jamestown team as a whole and to finally have had the opportunity to become a part of the Habitat Restoration team,” she said adding that job openings in the Tribe’s Natural Resources project have been few and far between. “Working under Randy Johnson will help me to grow professionally and learn new skills.”

The Dungeness watershed, where Suggs will focus, offers many similar and many different issues from those on the Elwha River, and the scale of the Tribe’s projects on the Dungeness are generally smaller than the Elwha dam removal project. But she will be working with many of the same people from the various state, federal and other environmental organizations. Some, like the Washington Recreation and Conservation Office, and the North Olympic Salmon Coalition, are new to her, and she looks forward to developing those new relationships.

A Jamestown S’Klallam Tribal citizen from the Cook/Kardonsky family, she is the daughter of Tribal Council Treasurer Theresa R. Lehman. She serves on the Health Committee and the Economic Development Authority Board. She is the mother of Austin Suggs, a Jamestown descendent; Zelby, enrolled Lower Elwha; and Kailoni, enrolled Lummi, and the grandmother of Teagan (enrolled Lower Elwha).

“We have a multi-nation family,” she said.
Robin Allen has retired after nearly 23 years as Security Manager for 7 Cedars Casino.

He worked as a Fisheries Enforcement Officer for the Point No Point Treaty Council from 1976-1981, and then for several years in Enforcement for newly recognized Jamestown S’Klallam Tribe. From 1984-1994, he was a commercial fisherman but, he said, his timing was bad.

“By the time I got into fishing there were twice as many fishermen, half as many fish, and the price of fish had dropped into the basement,” he said. In 1994, when the Casino was being built he was hired on by Primo Construction during the foundation phase of the build, prepping the ground with rebar before concrete was poured. It was a particularly hot summer.

“My sweat and blood are literally in that building,” he said.

On December 1, 1994, all of the managers for 7 Cedars Casino were hired, to give them time to interview staff before the Feb. 4, 1995 grand opening. Allen was encouraged by his brothers Jerry and Ron to apply for the Security Manager position.

“I was ready for an indoor job by that time,” he said, “and because of my enforcement experience, they hired me.”

The first four years were the most challenging, as management worked to balance staffing levels. Until the Casino brought in slot machines, business was slower than originally anticipated, so Allen (and all of the department managers) worked floor shifts. He worked the closing shift for many years, and managed as many as 33 staff members.

“Working in security was interesting and varied because we interacted with all of the other departments,” he said. “We escorted people transferring money, did a lot of customer service, broke up bar fights, and did first aid, to name a few. We refereed.”

Allen explained that the job of security officer at the Casino attracted many different types of people – some of whom came from law enforcement, and others who moved into law enforcement or Tribal Gaming jobs after working in security. Training included Management of Aggressive Behavior (MOAB), which he described as “verbal judo.”

“We had no weapons of any kind, and had to know how to de-escalate potentially violent situations,” he said. Throughout his life, Allen fished. His dad taught him, and he taught his son Casey, who has carried on the tradition at Dungeness Bay. He calls that place his “picnic fishery,” where he set up camp with a crab cooker and fish barbecuing sticks, to be able to prepare food on site.

“I developed the market, cutting out the middle man by getting my buyer/dealer card and selling directly to places like Sunny Farms and the Longhouse,” he said. He sold salmon and crab, and smoked salmon as well. “Casey does all of that now.”

Two years ago, Allen’s daughter Kirsten and her husband Tyler White brought son Brody into the world. Allen is enjoying being a grandfather, and hopes to teach Brody how to fish.

Thirteen months ago, his wife Sharon, who he met working at the Casino in 2002, was diagnosed with lung cancer. That made Allen begin to think about retirement. In April he began training Brandy Hooley to replace him as Security Manager.

Then, this past summer, the wildfire smoke really took a toll on him, making it harder for him to breathe with his emphysema and COPD. He decided to retire in September, to enjoy as much time with his wife and family as possible, and to travel with Sharon to Arizona every three weeks for her cancer treatments.

Thank you for your many years of service to the Tribe, Robin!
Holiday Season and Reasons to be Grateful

A Message from Tribal Council Chair/CEO W. Ron Allen

Greetings Tribal Citizens! Season greetings and wishing everyone a very joyous holiday season. I’m sure many of you are wondering what happened to the summer and fall of 2017 and realizing Christmas is almost here. This is always a time that everyone including our citizens look forward to enjoying regardless of the stress of finding gifts for family and friends.

It is a time we look forward to the Tribal and 7 Cedars Christmas lights in Blyn, the Cedars Golf Course, the Health Clinic, and now the Dungeness River Center, as well as holiday parties including our Annual Tribal Christmas events. It is a time when, as we get closer to the New Year, we reflect on what has happened in the last year and because of the election political climate - what it has meant to our daily lives, as well as this Presidency’s effect on the State of Indian Affairs across the nation.

Yet we can be thankful for many things that have occurred not only in the last year, but what has happened over the course of the last 30-plus years as our Tribe has continued its journey toward Self-Governance and Self-Reliance. I have noted many times over the years how we have consistently charted a course that resulted in a stronger government, better programs and services, and a more diversified Tribal business portfolio. This success has enabled us to survive and politically navigate through these turbulent political waters.

This year we are finally completing our Chicken Coop, Zaccardo Road and Hwy 101 junction to provide better safety for all our citizens to visit our Tribal South Campus for our Youth, Elder and Community Service programs. We have made great progress in setting the stage for our long-overdue 7 Cedars Resort to complement the Casino. Next year we will begin construction of the service road and the waste water system to serve the Resort. Our expectation is to begin construction of the Resort in early 2019.

We have completed the renegotiation of our Tribal Gaming compact with the State, which was approved by the US Department of Interior, and updated our Tribal Gaming Ordinance, which was approved by the National Indian Gaming Commission. These actions contain authorities that will enable 7 Cedars Casino to operate more efficiently and continue to be more competitive in the gaming market place.

I haven’t written a lot about our re-emerging Jamestown Seafoods, Inc. that formerly operated our oyster farm in Dungeness Bay and was decertified over 15 years ago. Kurt Grinnell has very diligently expanded our geoduck business to include the development of oyster aquaculture in Sequim Bay with the expectation of expanding back into Dungeness Bay as well as a site in Dabob Bay in the Hood Canal. These oysters are being well received in the market.

While Kurt has been busy growing oysters, he has led our Tribe into the oyster hatchery business selling oyster seed to oyster farm producers. This business will stand alone, but nicely complements our own aquaculture, which we have high hopes of expanding into the seafood retail market.

I’ve mentioned the Public Safety and Justice Center in previous articles, but we now have secured the funding and negotiated with a contractor to begin construction in early 2018.

So, as we reflect on the loss of family and friends and the many great memories they have left us, we can be grateful for the growth of our community and its foundation for our future generations.

As I close this article I must give a “shout out” to our ability to recruit a young generation of Tribal citizens to come to work for our Tribe; most recently Loni Greninger in Social and Community Services and LaTrisha Suggs in Natural Resources among them. They are a testament to the preparation that our educational system has made possible, and in conjunction with their years of experience in their respective fields of expertise, we have high expectations.

We frequently receive compliments about our programs and operations, including our Health Clinic that is seen a unique model in Indian Country. But this professional success is due to our high expectations of recruiting and retaining great talent and investing in them. This approach is how we build successful teams.

I trust everyone had a great Thanksgiving and wish you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Please do not hesitate to call any of the Council members or me at (360) 681-4621 or e-mail me at rallen@jamestowntribe.org if you have any questions or need clarifications.

God bless,

W. Ron Allen

Corrections: Salmon Ceremony

It has come to our attention that there were some inaccuracies and omissions from the front page article in our November 2017 newsletter, entitled “Return of the Coho Ceremony.”

- We apologize to Janet Cameron for inaccurate information published about the Salmon Song she gifted to the S’Klallam/Klallam Tribes. Here is the correct information, according to Cameron:

  Cameron created the Salmon Song at the request of Mike Jones (Port Gamble Tribal Elder) before he passed. Cameron wrote the song and wants to clarify that it was not her grandmother’s song; she created it and gifted it to the three S’Klallam/Klallam Tribes. Cameron is related through her grandmother, Isabelle Allabush Ides, to members of all three S’Klallam/Klallam Tribes.

Some time ago, Cameron created two other songs – the Blessing Song and the Wolf Song - at her grandmother’s request, and gifted them to the Grinnell family for their 2004 Naming Ceremony.

  Thank you Janet Cameron, for getting us the correct information, and for generously creating and gifting us these songs!

- We also want to apologize to Dave Purser for omitting his name from the list of fishermen who reasserted the Tribe’s fishing rights after the Boldt Decision. According to Tom Becker, “Dave was our mentor for eight years, teaching us about the tides, and how to fish. He was an important part of that fishery.”

  Thank you Dave Purser!

Ward Retires At End of Month

Tribal citizen Dana Ward will retire as Nursing Manager from Jamestown Family Health Clinic at the end of December. Ward has worked for the Tribe for many years. In 2012, she “retired” from the position as Community Health Nurse, which she had held for eight years. She took about six months off, and then returned to the clinic as a per diem (as needed) nurse in order to maintain her nursing credential. With the implementation of the EPIC health records management system in 2014, she moved into the position of certified trainer. And soon after that, when the Director of Nursing left the clinic, Ward stepped into what was supposed to be an interim position as Nursing Manager. Now three years later, she is ready to retire.

“I have thoroughly enjoyed all of my time working for the Tribe,” she said, “and now I want to spend some time with my husband, do some traveling and find some rewarding volunteer work.” While it wasn’t formerly possible to maintain nursing credentials through volunteer work, the rules have recently changed, and Ward is aware of many volunteer opportunities that would make use of her nursing skills.

Tribal citizens can contact Dianna Rosanbalm if they need extra assistance with clinic needs. Here direct phone number is 360-582-4889 and her email is drosanbalm@jamestowntribe.org. Dianna is a Certified Medical Assistant who has been with the Clinic for 14 years. She is a Lead Medical Assistant who manages safety and health for the clinics.

1st Lighting of the Bridge Event

Ron, Annette and Council,
Thank you so much for your coordination and support in making our 1st Lighting of the Bridge ceremony so special. The community turned out in the hundreds to see the lights come on. We had holiday music, hot chocolate, and cookies to bring in the season. We had youngsters and oldsters in the audience from tricycles to wheelchairs. They stretched clear down the trestle and lingered for a long time. It truly was a major community event and well beyond our expectations. The Center’s facilities looked beautiful. The designer created a tasteful and animal-friendly display of color. We cannot thank you enough.

EDA Update

Let us put our minds together and see what future we can make for our children. ~Chief Joseph, Nez Perce

At the EDA, we seek to find new ideas as well as grow our own in a way that each one can be nurtured into something that works for the Jamestown S’Klallam Tribe.

We love hearing about new business opportunities or about ideas that people have for businesses. Usually, the latter involves someone identifying a problem and the presenting their business proposal as a solution. This is a great first step.

At the EDA, we want to help with the next steps which usually involve testing the idea on smaller scale. If that works, you scale up and test further. The process is iterative and it is challenging, but if you love what you are doing it is also fun.

Not many people know it, but the fidget spinner, the popular spinning toy that rotates when you spin it, was invented by Scott McCoskery of Suquamish, WA. The problem he was solving? He wanted something to do to cope with his own fidgeting during meetings and conference calls.

If you have an idea or a problem that you can solve through a product or service, please contact us anytime at 360-683-2025 or by email: kjohnson@jamestowntribe.org

Housing Improvement Program Committee Opening

The Housing Improvement Committee (HIP) looking to fill a vacancy to begin January 18, 2018. If you are an enrolled Jamestown Tribal citizen who has experience with housing (construction or maintenance) and reside in the service area we hope you will apply.

The HIP Committee is responsible for balancing Tribal citizen need with the $35,000 per year budget provided by the Bureau of Indian Affairs. The Tribe’s HIP Committee strives to keep Jamestown S’Klallam Tribal citizens in safe and healthy homes. Attendance at the quarterly meetings in January, April, July and October is required. The committee acts on recommendations made by the Tribe’s Housing Program staff which evaluates the applicants’ income eligibility and project compatibility with the assistance available through the HIP program.

This opening completes a term that ends January 2019, and may continue for a full, three-year term if re-elected.

Letters of interest must be received by December 22, 2017.

Respond to: Casey Thrush, Housing Program Manager
Jamestown S’Klallam Tribe, 1033 Old Blyn Highway, Sequim, WA 98382

Questions? Call Casey at 360-681-3411 or email cthrush@jamestowntribe.org.
After the meal, the group went outside to the memorial, which was blessed by Holden. Fletcher offered words of thanks, and Barrell offered apologies and coins to Allan Lickiss (for *spelling his name incorrectly) and Westin Lickiss (for not including him on the memorial), assuring them that the errors meant no disrespect, and will be corrected. Her apology on behalf of the Tribe was accepted.

Albert Fletcher offered these words of thanks:

Thank you, Thank you, Thank you
First and foremost to our veterans both present and past; to those who went, to those who are there still, to those who returned, to those who never will, to the families who stood and stand behind us; may God bless each and every one.
Thank you, Tribal Council, Háʔnəŋ cn, Háʔnəŋ cn, Háʔnəŋ cn. You have truly looked after your people. Thank you Bud Turner, Ann Sargent, and Jerry Allen, for your support year after year.
What a blessing both of the Veterans Memorial monument, and of all who attended. There was so much positive input from veterans and family members. What a group! I am still thanking God for those wonderful people and for the blessing. Once again I say thank you and let me know if I can help with any information you Tribal veterans need.

VA Reaches Out to Native Veterans

The US Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) recently reached out to Tribal leaders asking for help in identifying and assisting eligible veterans across Indian Country who meet certain criteria for special programs. These include:

- Presumptive Conditions: The VA assumes that certain medical conditions are related to military service, although these conditions may first appear after discharge from the military. These conditions may qualify for compensation payments.

- Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC): When a veteran dies as a result of these presumptive disabilities, surviving spouses may be eligible for this compensation.

- Disability Compensation: The VA may pay additional compensation to a veteran who, as a result of military service, incurred the loss or loss of use of specific organs or extremities.

- Veterans Pension: This is a needs-based benefit paid to wartime veterans who meet certain age or non-service connected disability requirements.

- Enhanced/Special Monthly Pension: This is an increased monthly pension amount payable to a veteran or surviving spouse. Eligibility is determined by factors including whether you require special aid and assistance, or are housebound.

The Tribe has fact sheets on these five special programs available in the Tribal library, or by email or US Postal mail if you cannot come to the library. Contact Librarian Bonnie Roos at broos@jamestowntribe.org or 360-582-5783 or 1-800-262-6603, X-5783 to arrange for email or US Postal mail of these documents.

Tribal leaders attended the 2017 Centennial Accord meeting in mid-October, where state agencies presented updates on the collaboration efforts they are making with Tribes as a result of the accord. The state outlined the work that state agencies had made in the past year to strengthen the government-to-government relationships between the state and tribal governments.

At the recent 74th National Congress of American Indians (NCAI) Convention held in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Tribal Council Chairman/CEO W. Ron Allen was re-elected to the position of Treasurer on the NCAI Executive Council. Allen has served with NCAI since 1977, when he was first appointed as a delegate from the Jamestown S’Klallam Tribal Council. Over the years, he has served as President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer on the NCAI Executive Council.

On the fourth day of the conference, NCAI Elections Committee Chair Juanita Ahtone, with the assistance of NCAI Credentials Committee Chair Yvonne Oberly, announced the 2017-2019 Executive Council election results:

- President: Chickasaw Nation Lt. Governor Jefferson Keel
- 1st Vice President: Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians Chairperson Dr. Aaron Payment
- Recording Secretary: Pauma Band of Luiseno Mission Indians Traditional Councilwoman Juana Majel-Dixon
- Treasurer: Jamestown S’Klallam Tribe Chairman/CEO W. Ron Allen.

Tribal Council Chair/CEO Ron Allen, Vice-Chair Liz Mueller, Treasurer Theresa Lehman, Health Services Director Brent Simcosky, EDA Executive Director Kyle Johnson, SCS Deputy Director Loni Greninger, and Tribal Policy Liaison Jessica Payne represented Jamestown at the meeting.

Chicken Coop/Zaccardo Road Update

On Monday November 13th, the new Zaccardo Road extension (off Chicken Coop Road) opened, and the old Zaccardo Road intersection at Highway 101 closed forever. The project of converting three entries onto Highway 101 into one safe intersection is almost done. Still to come:
- Road striping, which is weather dependent
- Fencing
- Ditch and shoulder clean up
- Wetland mitigation, off-site

From now on, if you need to drive to the Social and Community Services building, you will have to turn onto Chicken Coop Road and make a right turn onto the new Zaccardo Road spur, which leads directly into the SCS parking lot. To go up Zaccardo Road (to the Children’s Center, Hummingbird Hall, etc.), bear left up the hill.

The full message on this sign is “Use new Zaccardo Road off Chicken Coop Road.”

New Poetry Collection

Poet, fiction writer, playwright, and editor Duane Niatum has been writing poems, stories and essays for over 50 years. His writing describes and reveres the Northwest coast landscape, for which he credits the lessons he learned from his grandfather, Francis Patsey, who instilled in him a deep sense of connection to the earth and sea. He has published numerous collections of poetry, including Song for the Harvester of Dreams (1980), which won the Before Columbus Foundation’s American Book Award. He also recently received a lifetime achievement award from the Native Writers’ Circle of the Americas. His work has been translated into 14 different languages.

The Library now has nearly all of his works. Our collection includes:

- A Cycle for the Woman in the Field
- After the Death of an Elder Klallam
- Agate Songs on the Path of Red Cedar
- Ascending Red Cedar Moon
- Carriers of the Dream Wheel
- Contemporary Native American Poetry
- Crooked Beak of Love
- Drawings of the Song Animals: New and Selected Poems
- Journeys that Criss-Cross Darkness and Light
- Learning to Live with Darkness like the Crows
- Nesting Out For Stars and Other Stories
- Songs for the Harvester of Dreams
- Stories from the Land of Red Cedar
- Stories of the Moons
- The Talking Walls
- Turning to the Rhythms of Her Song
- Stories of the Moons

Take a book, leave a book at the Little Library at Jamestown Beach

Next time you are at Jamestown Beach check out the new little library neighborhood book exchange. The mini library is attached to the fry bread shack. Inside you will find a selection of free books to choose from. These are not library books so there is no check-out required. Just take a book and either return it or bring a different book to leave for the next reader to find.

Little libraries are a great way to discover new books, to meet people in your community to discuss favorite books or to grab a book if you have a book emergency (those times when, [gasp!] you have nothing to read).

Thank you Dave Hartman and Bud Turner for the construction and artwork!

Announcements

Beach Seine for Sale:
In 2015 the Jamestown Tribe purchased a beach seine for interested Tribal citizens to use on a planned pink salmon fishery in Dungeness Bay. The seine was never used as the run never materialized as forecasted. We are now selling the seine at a discounted price to any Tribal citizen who is interested. The seine is 125 fathoms long with 30% “hung in” and 100 meshes deep (3&1/2 inch mesh) with an 8 fathom pocket in the middle. We had extra corks installed to help with buoyancy. The net is in excellent condition as it was never used and has been sitting in dry storage since it was purchased. The Tribe paid $3,612 new and we are taking 25% off for a total sale price of $2,700. If you are interested in learning more about the seine or purchasing the seine please call Aaron Brooks, fisheries biologist, at (360) 582-5784.

Job Openings

- Clinical Pharmacist Full Time, Family Health Clinic
- Dental Hygienist, Per Diem, Family Dental Clinic
- Advanced Nurse Practitioner, Full time, Family Health Clinic
- Physician Assistant, Full Time, Family Health Clinic

Please visit https://jamestowntribe.applicantpool.com/ for open job descriptions and to apply.

Questions? Call Tribal citizen Ethel Colon (HR Assistant) for answers: (360) 582-5789

Tribal Gift Checks Are Tax Exempt

$1,000 Elder Holiday checks were mailed on November 16th

$150 Gift cards will be mailed out the week of December 4th

The General Welfare Exclusion Act, which was passed by Congress two years ago, allows Tribes to provide assistance to Tribal citizens without the consequence of taxes. We have designed our Elder Check program to take advantage of this tax exempt benefit.
